KOWODENS TD / TDi Transmission Densitometer, desktop model

For precise determination of optical densities of X-ray films the KOWODENS TD is equipped with innovative digital measuring technique. The KOWODENS TDi, in addition to the illuminated area around the measuring spot, has a completely illuminated table. The illuminated display enables easy readings even in darkened rooms and calibration of the instrument, done with the software, is simple and much more accurate than on conventional densitometers.

There are two ways of operating the measuring sensor – either by pressing it down onto the film or the sensor is laying on the film with slight pressure and is lifted before moving the film to next measuring spot.

Due to the soft tip sensor and rounded edges of the light table even large format films can be measured without scratching these.
